Work Experience

Freelance Writer

June 2006 – Present

Regular contributor to Wired, Ars Technica, The Register and elsewhere, covering Linux, open source software, web browsers and web technology.

Editor-in-Chief, Webmonkey.com

July 1999-May 2013

Writing tutorials, documentation for code libraries
<http://webmonkey.com/>

I started contributing tutorials to Wired.com's Webmonkey.com in 1999, became 1 of 3 full time employees in 2005 and served as editor-in-chief from 2010 to 2013. I was in charge of creating resources for web developers, including how-to guides on the latest in web standards, code libraries, server technologies and authoring resources. Wrote roughly 3 million words on various web development tools and cultivated and managed a global team of freelance contributors.

Founder, LongHandPixels Press

September 2013 – Present

<http://longhandpixels.net/>

Founded an ebook publishing company and launched my first book, Build a Better Web with Responsive Web Design. The book covers responsive design, mobile-first web development, progressive enhancement and how modern tools like Sass, Grunt, Node, the Chrome developer tools and more can speed up workflows.

Web Developer

June 2004 – Present

Co-founded a small design company where I serve as front-end web developer. I work closely with my co-founder (lead UI/UX), transforming visual designs into valid, semantic HTML/CSS/JavaScript. We specialize in responsive designs and mobile-friendly content that works across browsers and devices. Clients included Wired, Pioneer Entertainment, Boost Mobile, Co-op Credit Union and others.

Education

BA in English
